Connected by a 25-mile pipeline to Prudhoe Bay, but no permanent road. Colorado-based Savant redeveloped the field in 2008 for BP Exploration Alaska, ending a five-year production hiatus, and took over the unit in 2011. Savant is now a subsidiary of Glacier Oil and Gas, which was acquired in January by a Texas-based venture formed by Pontem Energy and Sweat Equity Partners. The unit contains an estimated 120 million barrels of oil equivalent (BOE) in recoverable reserves.
