The largest unit in the region by area, located about 10 miles north of Boulder Point near Nikiski. Shell drilled two wells in the mid-'60s, to little avail. ARCO added two more wells in the early '90s, and ConocoPhillips drilled in the unit, too. Cornucopia acquired a majority working interest in 2010, and Furie Operating Alaska brought in the Spartan 151 jack-up rig and Kenai Offshore Ventures' Endeavor rig to finally tap into the Beluga and Sterling gas pools. The Julius R platform is connected by 10-inch pipe to the East Foreland facility.
